A presentation showing alternative traffic calming methods which may be appropriate for the Blue Pacific was distributed for viewing to committee members and Board members.

Also, pros and cons list for each approach, showing rough cost figures was distributed to the committee, along with an initial survey for each option, and a copy of my initial recommendations; requesting committee member's review and response.

A query to the ROP Central Coast group resulted two responses, neither adding any additional information re: traffic calming.

Since we don't have the resources for online meetings, until social distancing restrictions are lifted, additional work will be done via email and hand exchanged documents for committee members who don't use email.

With Board approval, the next planned step is to request member's viewing of video and completion of survey. This will encourage general members' participation in the process.
